MINIMUM STANDARDS OF HUMAN RIGHTS NORMS IN A STATE OF EMERGENCY

SECTION (A) EMERGENCY: DECLARATION, DURATION AND CONTROL

1. (a) The existence of a public emergency which threatens the life of the nation, and which is officially proclaimed, will justify the declaration of a state of emergency.

(b) The expression "public emergency" means an exceptional situation of crisis or public danger, actual or imminent, which affects the whole population or the whole population of the area to which the declaration applies and constitutes a threat to the organized life of the community of which the state is composed.

- 2. The constitution of every state shall define the procedure for declaring a state of emergency; whenever the executive authority is competent to declare a state of emergency, such official declaration shall always be subject to confirmation by the legislature, within the shortest possible time.
- 3. (a) The declaration of a state of emergency shall never exceed the period strictly required to restore normal conditions.

(b) The duration of emergency (save in the case of war or external aggression) shall be for a period of fixed term established by the constitution.

- (c) Every extension of the initial period of emergency shall be supported by a new declaration made before the expiration of each term for another period to be established by the constitution.
- (d) Every extension of the period of emergency shall be subject to the ignor approval of the legislature.
- The declaration of a state of emergency may cover the entire territory the state or any part thereof, depending upon the areas actually affected the circumstances motivating the declaration. This will not prevent the extension of emergency measures to other parts of the country whenever necessary nor the exclusion of those parts where such circumstances in longer prevail.
- 5. The legislature shall not be dissolved during the period of emergency but shall continue to function; if dissolution of a particular legislature is warranted, it shall be replaced as soon as practicable by a legislature duly elected in accordance with the requirements of the constitution, which shall ensure that it is freely chosen and representative of the entire nation.
- 6. (a) The termination of a state of emergency shall be automatic upon the expiration of a given term without prejudice to the right of express revocation before such expiry to be exercised by the executive or the legislature, as the case may be.
- (b) Upon the termination of an emergency there shall be automatic restoration of all rights and freedoms which were suspended or restricted during the emergency and no emergency measures shall be maintained thereafter.
- 7. At the regional or international level, every declaration of emergency by a state party to a regional or international human rights treaty shall be subject to such judicial or other review as the terms of the particular treaty may provide; while, at the national level, such power of review shall be exercised in terms of the constitution and legal tradition of the state concerned, keeping in view the undertaking of the state to adopt legislative or other measures to give effect to the rights recognized by any treaty to which it may be a party.

SECTION (B) EMERGENCY POWERS AND THE PROTECTION OF INDIVIDUALS: GENERAL PRINCIPLES

- 1. During the period of the existence of a public emergency the state; concerned may take measures derogating from its obligations to respect and ensure to all individuals within its territory and subject to its jurisdiction the human rights and fundamental freedoms internationally recognized, but its may not derogate from internationally prescribed rights which are by their own terms "nonsuspendable" and not subject to derogation.
- 2. The power to take derogatory measures as aforesaid is subject to fivel general conditions:
- (a) Every state which is a party to a regional or international human rights treaty shall comply with the principle of notification as may be prescribed by the particular treaty.

(b) Such measures must be strictly proportionate to the exigencies of the situation.

(c) Such measures must not be inconsistent with the other obligations of the state under international law.

(d) Such measures must not involve any discrimination solely on the ground of race, colour, sex, language, religion, nationality or social origin.

- (e) The basic rights and freedoms guaranteed by international law shall remain non-derogable even during emergency. As the minimum, the constitution shall provide that the rights recognized as non-derogable in international law may not be affected by a state of emergency.
- 3. While assuming or exercising emergency powers every state shall respect the following principles:
- (a) The fundamental functions of the legislature shall remain intact despite the relative expansion of the authority of the executive. Thus, the legislature shall provide general guidelines to regulate executive discretion in respect of permissible measures of delegated legislation.

(b) The prerogatives, immunities and privileges of the legislature shall remain intact.

- (c) The guarantees of the independence of the judiciary and of the legal profession shall remain intact. In particular, the use of emergency powers to remove judges or to alter the structure of the judicial branch or otherwise to restrict the independence of the judiciary shall be prohibited by the constitution.
- 4. (a) All emergency measures in derogation of the rights of individuals shall be supported by the authority of law as enacted by the duly elected representatives of the people.

(b) As far as practicable, norms to be applied during an emergency hall be formulated when no emergency exists.

- (c) States shall review and, if necessary, revise the emergency measures flegislative or executive) from time to time to ensure reasonable guarantees gainst any abusive exercises of emergency powers.
- 5. The judiciary shall have the power and jurisdiction to decide: firstly, whether or not an emergency legislation is in conformity with the constitution the state; secondly, whether or not any particular exercise of emergency lower is in conformity with the emergency legislation; thirdly, to ensure there is no encroachment upon the non-derogable rights and that devotatory measures derogating from other rights are in compliance with the use of proportionality; and fourthly, where existing municipal laws and derogate not specifically rescinded or suspended, the judiciary shall continue the regard them as being in effect. A court of law shall have full powers to be null and void any emergency measure (legislative or executive) or application of any emergency measure which does not satisfy the said tests.
